Forest Theater Board Selects Summer Play

The Forest Theater Board at its meeting on Thursday unanimously decided to present as its annual summer prodnction the Greek drama, "Iphigenia in Tauris," Herbert Heron, producer. The play will be given three nights—July 2, 3, 4.

Plays for Golden Bough Theatre Are Announced

It is intended that the Theatre of the Golden Bough shall make the first American production of at least two important new European plays during the coming summer.

The first of these, "2 × 2 = 5," is Denmark's most delicious comedy, written by Gustave Wied, the embodiment of Scandinavia's comic spirit. His work is a complete departure from that of Ibsen, Strindberg and other Scandinavian writers who deal almost wholly with the graver and darker side of life. To Wied there is no moment, however tragic, that has not its highly humorous aspect.

The second of these modern Continental plays, "The House Into Which We Are Born," was written by Jacques Copeau, owner and director of the famous Theatre du Vieux Columbier, in Paris, who worked on the play for over twenty years before it was finally produced in 1923. Though a searching analysis and gripping portrayal of a provincial French family, the application of this play is even more nearly universal than the social dramas of Ibsen and his followers, and the characters are infinitely more sympathetic and "human."

The second season of the Theatre of the Golden Bough, to be carried on under Edward G. Kuster's personal direction, will open May 29 and 30 with the following triple bill: "'Op-o'-me-Thumb," by Fenner and Pryce; "Teja," by Sudermann; and "Autumn Fires," by Wied. Substantial improvements are now under way in the theatre, and rehearsals of these interesting plays, two of which will be given their first western production, will begin immediately after Kuster's return to the coast.

Mr. William Overstreet,
Editor "Pine Cone," Carmel.

My Dear Sir:

You will recall that last summer and fall I caused advance notices to be published in the name of the Theatre of the Golden Bough to the effect that Maurice Browne's proposed production of "The Ship" by St. John Ervine, would be a "world premiere." I did this in reliance upon the statements of Mr. Browne to myself and others that the play had never been produced and that he controlled first-production rights.

Mr. Browne seems to have labored under a serious error with regard to the play, for I have just learned, to my considerable embarrassment, that in 1922 it was performed with success for two weeks at the Playhouse, Liverpool, and was performed with even greater success in repertory, early in 1924, in the Little Theatre at Bristol.

I am further informed that "The Ship" will shortly be given London production, after which, no doubt, it will be brought to New York. After all, Carmel at least retains the credit for the American premiere, and has had the benefit of a first-rate production, of Mr. Ervine's excellent play; and I hope that the prestige of the Theatre of the Golden Bough will suffer no serious hurt by reason of the foregoing incident, regrettable though it is.

EDWARD G. KUSTER.

THIS PLACE WE CALL CARMEL

The far-reaching importance of three propositions now before the people of Carmel cannot be over-estimated in their influence on the growth, prosperity and future expansion of the city and its environs.

Of first importance is the maintenance of the trees. "The trees are what in a great measure help to make the charm of Carmel," says a prominent citizen. He is right. There should be no indiscriminate destruction. And where destruction is necessary, there should be immediate planting.

Of almost equal importance in maintaining the community safely is a sane, conservative and operative building ordinance; one that will conform more or less with the recently enacted zoning ordinance.

In voting bonds for a new public school building, we will be doing something that has been too long neglected. Families coming to make their homes here have a right to expect the very best there is in the way of elementary education. An overcrowded, unsanitary school building and limited recreational grounds are not worthy of Carmel.

We should all give serious thought to these three forward-looking projects. We have a board of city trustees who are public-spirited and willing to act for the best interests of the city. Our school trustees are experts in school management and administration. The public should co-operate with these official bodies to the fullest extent.

Monterey Citizens Vote to Adopt New Charter

Last Monday, while thirty-three Carmel voters were casting their ballots to elect members of the Sanitary District Board, over 700 Monterey voters went to the polls to express their opinion for or against the new charter for their city.

The new charter was adopted by a rousing majority. The main feature of the new form of government suggested by the board of freeholders is the employment of a city manager.

It has been found that under this plan a more efficient, a more economical and a more satisfactory administration of municipal affairs can be obtained.

Carmel, according to the State law, is a sixth class city.

Mayor Benj. F. Wright, who opposed the adoption of the charter, says:

"In view of the fact that the people have gone to the expense of holding an election to ratify this charter, I shall be glad to accept their verdict and do everything possible to co-operate with them for the good of the city. I have no grudge against anyone; there was nothing personal in my attitude toward the charter. I still think the city manager will constitute an unnecessary expense for the city, but I believe in giving anything and everyone a square deal."

New Posters Ready

The new posters issued by Monterey Peninsula Communities Inc., were inspected last week and arrangements made for their distribution to the merchants. It is to be hoped that Peninsula merchants will take pride in placing these handsome posters in conspicuous positions and that general use will be made of our slogan, "The Circle of Enchantment," on all letter heads, envelopes, etc.

Arrangements are being made to supply all job printers on the Peninsula with a cut of "The Circle of Enchantment," which they will use on printed matter for our citizens without extra charge.

The treasurer reported the pledges as being paid with reasonable promptness and the financial condition of the organization was found to be in satisfactory condition.

Ground will shortly be broken for the new "Bloomin' Basement" building on Ocean avenue, between Lincoln and Monte Verde streets. It will be a two-story building.

Local School Bonds Absolutely Necessary

All Carmel and Pebble Beach voters who have the interest of the children at heart, should keep March 27 in their minds as the day for voting the proposed issue of bonds. In order to carry, remember that a two-thirds majority of votes cast is required.

Some there are who say. "The old school has always been good enough! Why should they have a new one?"

Naturally, these people have no children and have not visited the school, or they would be aware that the rate of growth has undergone a change. In the three years from 1921 to 1924 there was an increase of 19 children. Since the opening of school last September, there has been an increase of 45 children. From an average increase of a little more than 6 per year, we have jumped to 45—and the year is by no means over! Not a week passes without new registrations. Is it any wonder that some of the rooms are so full that there is literally not room for one more?

Everyone knows that no teacher can do satisfactory work with an overcrowded room. The trustees are cognizant of this and are desirous of having more teachers as soon as their income warrants it. But they cannot have more teachers unless they have a place in which to teach! More accommodations do not exist, nor is there any possibility of providing them under present conditions.

The Sunset district must signify its willingness to provide adequately for its children. That this can be done without being felt as a burden in the tax rate is proven by a slight computation. Sunset district has an assessed valuation of almost 2 millions. $50,000 worth of bonds at 5 per cent are proposed of which $2500 shall be retired each year. For the first year an income of $5000 will be required to meet interest and retiring fund, and progressively less each year. This means an increase in the tax rate of 2½ mills on the dollar which can be further reduced by a cut in the special building appropriation, so that the tax will not amount to more than 2 mills, which means 20 cents on every hundred dollars.

Legally the district could be bonded up to $100,000, so that you are being asked for only half of what you are able to give. Our neighbor, Gonzales, has just completed a building at a cost of $89,000, though the assessed valuation of the district is only $160,000.

Anyone who still has doubts as to the propriety of voting these bonds is urged to visit the school.

Local Residents Buy Country Club Property

More than one hundred memberships in the new Monterey Peninsula Country Club at Moss Beach on the Seventeen-Mile Drive, have been sold—and sold largely to members of the Monterey Peninsula.

The most encouraging sign to the Del Monte Properties Company, which is backing the new venture, is the splendid support given the club by the residents of the Monterey Peninsula—those who know the district and those who have the utmost confidence in its future.

Each membership in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club carries with it a deed to a building site in the district adjoining the club golf course, and none of these sites will be sold except to club members. In other words, there will be no sale of real estate in the Moss Beach district except to those holding memberships in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Home Membership Plan

In order to take care of the "home town" first a plan has been evolved whereby residents of Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach may pay a deposit on their memberships and reserve the building sites they wish at once, before the general sale of memberships starts. This lets them in on the ground floor—providing, of course, that their application for membership is accepted.

A golf course is now being constructed through the pine forests and over the sand dunes at Point Joe. Seventy-five yard fairways will be bordered by homesites that will rival any in the world in scenic beauty and natural attractiveness.

Charles B. Macdonald and Seth Raynor have laid out and planned the Monterey Peninsula Country Club's golf course, and their work in the past has been of such a nature that this sea-side links should take its place as one of the finest in America.

The golf architects themselves are enthusiastic over the outlay. Surveyors and engineers who have gone over the property have been struck with the attractiveness of the land on which they work, and have been among the first to reserve memberships in this club.

Local Buyers

Among those who have already selected their sites are Harry Leon Wilson, Carmel Highlands; Gene Byrnes, B. T. Knight, Argyll Campbell, Irene Cator, Mrs. Genevieve Mosher, Miss Camilla Daniels, Mrs. L. A. Shipley, Miss Elizabeth White, Hal Bragg, Julia Hilby, Chas. K. Van Riper, Fenton P. Foster and Harrison Godwin of Carmel; Carmel Martin, Allen Griffin, Gouverneur Morris, J. J. Harrington, Arthur Hately, Archie Kay, Dr. Harry Brownell, Eddie Burns, Carl Stanley, M. W. McMenamin, Dr. W. L. Teaby, Elmer Zanetti, Colonel H. H. Pattison, Humphrey Todd, E. G. McMenamin, Henry Tiedemann, A. H. Parnell, P. J. Dougherty, of Monterey; J. L. Schroeder, C. L. Frost, A. B. Jacobson, L. E. M. Cosmey, W. J. Gould and Jack Beaumont of Pacific Grove; Byington Ford of Pebble Beach and S. F. B. Morse of Del Monte.

$23.50 a Month More

The postal pay and rate increase bill, which was signed by President Coolidge, will provide salary raise of about $300 a year to each of the employees of the Carmel postoffice. There are two regular clerks and one auxiliary clerk in addition to Postmaster Stella Vincent.

The increased salary of the rural carriers will be slightly more than that of the other employees, because their raise is figured on mileage and they furnish their own transportation equipment. The bill not only increases the salary of supervisors, clerks and carriers, but adds 5 cents an hour to the pay of substitutes, who have formerly received 60 cents.

The increase in salary will date back to January 1, though the revenue from the increase of postal rates will not be available until after April 15, when the bill goes into effect.

Tilly Polak Relates Experiences in Mexico

The boat arrived at Manzanillo on Friday, February 13th, and the first thing I learned was that I could not land because I did not get my passport vised by the Mexicon Consul in San Francisco. He had told me it was not necessary, but the officials in Manzanillo told me plainly it was necessary and that I could not land. With the assistance of the purser, two hours of time, a roll of red tape, my last smile, I managed to get my passport and left the boat with a perspiring forehead, wondering what would be next..

The train that was to take me to Guadalajara was two and a half hours late, and I had to wait all that time in a very dirty hotel where it was too chilly, or on the sidewalk where it was too dusty. Five minutes before the train left I suddenly realized that I had left my guidebook for Mexico in the hotel. I found a little boy standing by the train and asked him in my most gracious, newly acquired Spanish, to fetch it for me. It sounded something like "Libro en Hotel Manzanillo Viviente." Of course he said "Si, Si" (all people do, and they bring you a clothes-hanger if you ask them for a trunk label). I expected him to come back with an orange, a policeman or a bottle of beer. But no, there he was running along on his dirty bare feet, with my book. And the train left, leaving behind a little boy staring at a 25-centavo piece.

Two Americans with me on the train suddenly discovered they had left their fur coats on a chair in front of the hotel in Manzanillo. Arriving the same day in Colima, they wired the American Consul, who found the same coats still on the same chair in front of the same hotel. And people will tell you to "Watch your baggage in Mexico."

A young man from the Italian Embassy in Mexico, whom I met on board ship, discovered that he had left his overcoat in his stateroom. The boat had left and his coat is on a cruise de luxe by way of the Panama Canal. The evenings in Mexico City are cold, you know.

My trunk had, by mistake, been shipped straight through to Mexico City instead of to Guadalajara. There is no American Consul in Colima, so I went to the English representative, who courteously gave me all the assistance I needed. He went to the depot and made the agent telegraph to Guadalajara to stop my trunk there. They did stop it, but I found I had lost the privilege of shipping any more luggage on my ticket. The expressman in Guadalajara speaks as perfect English as I speak Spanish, so we understood each other quite well. I lost and had to pay $3.85 to get my luggage to Mexico City.

I had caught an awful cold in Manzanillo, most likely on account of the struggle I had to get off the boat. After a week of illness in Guadalajara, in a strange hotel, with strange-tasting food, I was told by the doctor who attended me that I could not go on to Mexico City. Something wrong with my lung. An X-ray taken. Lungs in perfect order. The doctor felt he had to make good and advised me to wait another week before going to Mexico City and to take a rest in Chapala, at the lake. "Wonderful climate," said he, "gorgeous sunsets" (wonder if he ever saw our sunsets in Carmel), "not so dusty, etc." I agreed to do that and paid him $40 for the X-ray and his advice.

Next day I ordered a chauffeur and made a bargain (bargaining is a curse here). He would come at two o'clock the same afternoon. I parked my suitcase and was ready promptly at two; no car; no chauffeur. At three a man brings a message—his friend has gone to the carnival in a nearby town, but he (the message-bearer) will take me over, but wants $4.00 more for the favor. I told him in English what I thought of him and the other fellow too, but he did not seem to understand, because he bowed and said "Gracia." I was so angry after all this manana business, that I decided to take a risk and leave that same day for Mexico City. The train leaves at 4:25 P. M. Arriving at the depot I found a notice saying that the train would not leave until 6 o'clock in connection with the bullfight at Guadalajara. I could not get a lower berth, so had to go back to the hotel and cannot leave till tomorrow.

That's all. Now if I don't lose my ticket, or have an auto accident, or am held up by train robbers, I hope to arrive safely in Mexico City and will meet Dr. Gates there on Friday, March the 13th.

TILLY POLAK.

JUST KIDDING

WHEN A WRITER of fiction tires a little of his game, when his plots lack virility and the necessary fresh twist which makes them marketable, it behooves him to turn his attention to other things. Some writers take to liquor during these interims. Others pursue women. And it is not to be denied that still others take to golf. But we, just arrived in Carmel, could afford none of these things, for unlike the bee, we had stored no honey against the coming of winter. During our first month a few vagrant hundreds floated west from our New York agent, a straggling British serial right or two—and we were at the end. No more stories to sell. None on tap just yet. And the $500 story still owed Sunset Magazine!

BUT HOW could one, new to Carmel, write the old stuff? How could one think up villains, delectable heroines, fine and upstanding chaps to gather (in the last chapter) the delectable ones to their breasts and murmur words overheard only by the nearby horses champing at their bits, or maybe by the whispering palm fronds overhead? It was all off. There was a tingling in our blood, the ozone and salt of the sea in our nostrils. There was a craving to play, to ramble idly over the snow-white dunes of Carmel's beach, the thunder of the surf in our ears. We yearned to poke around the crumbling 'dobe of the Mission, and so did. Far afield, on highland heights, we gazed on noble promontory, our backs turned on a forest almost primeval. We penetrated groves of brooding cypress, their tortured trunks limned sharply against the bluest of seas, the fairest of skies.

GORGEOUS SUNSETS, sleepable nights, sparkling mornings, were our daily fare. Fiction was an ogre—an unspeakable thing. For there were poppies to gather. We plucked them, and watched a poet single-handed hoist stone on stone and fashion them into a playhouse for his children. Lucky children! Strong poet! And we know that as a mason he is good.

WE MADE side trips to Monterey, of which more anon, and in the Old Theatre sat in what was Jack Swan's saloon. Where once the clink of caballero's spurs resounded now tinkled cups and saucers of delicate china. The raucous call of the dance-hall bravo, the lilting wenches chanting, "Mi gustan todos, mi gustan todos en generale," had given way to the soft voices of visiting tourists from East Dubuque and the Brookline which is in Massachusetts. These latter pattered about and gazed on the truly worth-while relics of a dead and sour-sweet past. "Ain't it hell, Jack!" we murmured over our cups, and drank Swan's health, wherever he might be, in Orange Pekoe innocent of Bacardi or lemon.

HOME TO CARMEL, the bugles of the Presidio speeding us on our way, and with copper-spiked driftwood gathered on the beaches of the Seventeen Mile Drive burning in our fireplace we would while away the hours. A new book by Conrad. Hurray! Vermilion and purple tongues licking at the chimney sides. Contented dogs with full bellies curled up and dreaming perhaps of a heaven of bones and unleashed frolic. Contented bride, also well fed, curled up and knitting away at tiny pink socks—for her sister's baby. Long and late our lights burned, and often the risen sun would spy on us. What cared we?

INTO THE EDEN of our joy crept the grocer, a long bill in his hand. Bravely we faced him. "Be it known," we said, "that we are writing folk. We have made as much as $1,750 in three weeks. We average more than a hundred a week when we work. And very soon we're to start in working hard, maybe four hours a day." But the grocer was a Carmel grocer. He had had experience with writers. And he was firm. "Talk," said he, "won't pay my wholesalers. You'll have to pay cash from now on."

BESIDE the breakfast nook there were two long nails driven, both well padded with unpaid slips. On the point of driving a third nail we hesitated. It was disgraceful to owe so much. These tradespeople were a decent sort. They had fed us and had kept us warm. They must be paid. But we were not ready as yet to crank up the writing mill. We must have a little more time. The Portable was still with us. So we wound it and placed on it the "What'll I Do?" record. The bride's answer was short and to the point. "Go to work at something else for a while," she advised.

SO WE MULLED it over. We knew how to splice ropes and make a Turk's head with fancy ends, we knew how to bridlewise and gait horses, we could polish a pair of leggings until one could shave in 'em. But there was nothing doing in the sailor line, or with the horse proposition, and Mr. Walker of Ocean Avenue had a monopoly on the boot and shoe luster of Carmel. We could drive a nail and paint a door, but we didn't belong to the requisite Unions. At that point we turned to the advertising columns of the Carmel Pine Cone and found what we thought would answer most admirably.

A LADY, so it seemed, had just finished the building of a beautiful home in Pebble Beach. She was a city person, and would inhabit it only for week-ends. She needed a man and wife to act as caretakers; the man must be an expert gardener, the wife a competent cook. We read the advertisement aloud—and the bride smiled with us as if she had read our thoughts. We could cook, but we couldn't garden much. "You do the cooking," the bride proposed, "I'll do the gardening. Mrs. Pebble Beach won't know the difference." For had we not Miss Armstrong's "Wildflowers of California" on our bookshelf? And was not the Bloomin' Basement close at hand for one to make inquiry in a pinch? It was. And the Corona pounder was a cook par excellence, who could turn out anything from an humble pie of green apples to a luscious filet mignon with correct Bernaise. We could get by—Would Madame have us. And we could tune her Pierce-Arrow, do her correspondence, advise her on matters germane (were she a newly rich) to the conducting of a No. 1 Chop establishment.

AND THE PLOT had side elevations, dips and spurs and other angles. If Madame only came at infrequent intervals, people would think the new place belonged to us. We might have Bob Ritchie over of an evening to talk over old days of the Adventurers' Club in New York. Or Sam Blythe might pop in and renew an acquaintanceship begun in the Munsey Building in Washington. Or Willie Crocker, down from his father's bank for a day or two, might deign to call and talk over those days of bloody 1916, when in a tent at Benoit-Vaux we ambulanciers scraped the yellow mud of Verdun from our boots and gulped Three Star between trips. Of course he would remember Phil Armour and the Pol Roger of the rare cuvee, and the night Admiral Beatty's stepson fainted—and Dick McCreery and his Croix de Guerre—and the night three shells went through our Burliet. Yes; we'd have old friends for neighbors, and perhaps for company. So we wrote and set forth some of our qualifications. We wanted the Job. With the Armstrong book and our rich cooking we could make the grade.

POST HASTE the lady called. She traced us to our cottage lair but found us unprepared. For the bride was arrayed in her Palm Beach outfit, a halo of tobacco smoke around her golden head. Madame questioned, looked her fill, and went away. And we, in time, sought other avocation.

AND SO NOW, as we pay our four bits at the toll gate and enter on the Drive, we sniff the aristocratic air, not as servants and caretakers, but as free citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea. And as we turn to the left and pass a gardener stooping over his potted charges, we say to ourselves, "There, but for the grace of God, stoops the bride of

Anything Can Happen in Tomorrow's Baseball

Standing of the Clubs

SEALS	5	2	.715
SHARKS	5	2	.715
SARDINES	4	3	.572
SANDABS	3	4	.429
WHALES	2	5	.286
GOLDFISH	2	5	.286

Results of two of tomorrow's games will have a direct bearing on the leadership of the Abalone League. The schedule is:

1 o'clock—Sandabs vs. Whales.
2 o'clock—Goldfish vs. Seals.
3 o'clock—Sardines vs. Sharks.

The first game has no immediate bearing on the situation. If both the Seals and Sharks win their games the tie for the lead will continue. If either wins while the other is losing, the winning outfit will hold first place alone. If both of the leaders lose, the Sardines will become a third party to the tie at the top of the heap. Tomorrow looks like one of those crucial series that seem to develop with regularity in the course of an Abalone League season.

The league made history last Sunday. In climbing into a tie with the Seals, the Sharks made a record for Carmel baseball by putting over a 4 to 3 victory. It was the low-score game of league annals and was a thriller from start to finish. The Seals got a two-run lead in the first, added a run in the third and kept ahead of their rivals until the Sharks tied it in the fifth on Lee Gottfried's second triple and Fred Godwin's hit. Fred batted home three of his team's four runs, including the final count. The winning run was put over with two out in the last half of the seventh.

It was tallied on a "squeeze" play, a genuinely professional piece of strategy in which a runner on third starts for the plate as the pitcher throws and the batsman prevents the catcher making a play by tipping a bunt into the infield. While Winsor Josselyn was tearing for the plate, Fred Godwin's bunt dribbled along the third base-line. The ball was handled cleanly, but Fred beat the throw and the Sharks won their game and a tie for the lead. Tal Josselyn directed the Seals' play from the side-lines, opening an office in a rocking chair. But the Eighty-Acre Tactician couldn't put over a win.

The Sandabs beat the Sardines, 11 to 6, in the first game of the afternoon. The third and final contest with the Whales and Goldfish as opponents started in a torrential shower. The foemen showed a fishy disdain for the dampness, set their storm signals, and plunged into the fray. At the end of the first inning the catcher's glove was of the consistency of a hot-water bottle, and every attempt to play a ball produced some spectacular skidding. The Goldfish won 10 to 1, and although the victory didn't lift them out of last place it had the "dog-fish in the manger" effect of dragging the once-proud Whales down to their own low level.

OUR COUNTRY STILL BEST

"Big Bill" Haywood would rather come to America and face prison, than to stay in the communistic Russia of his muddled dreams. Emma Goldman, sick at heart over the failure of the soviet oligarchy to give or even dream a people's government, wants to come "home" to the land she said she despised. Theodore Petroff, a vulgar swindler caught in Wisconsin, pleads for life imprisonment in this country rather than deportation and freedom in Russia.

Only the blind man will say that everything is "all right" in Our Country. There are many things that need fixing; things that need the golden rule and the rule of common sense and the teachings of experience. But it is still the best country. It can be made still better when more realize this in the same sense that any sovereign realizes the responsibility for the charge committed to his care.

More active participation in every public move, an intelligent vote in every primary, a realization that every broken law is a personal assault on the national life, would greatly improve social and political conditions in Our Country.

TELEPHONES IN JAPAN

Any person who complains if he has to wait several days to have his telephone installed, should read the experience of an American woman who has gone to Japan to live. In Japan, the telephone system is owned by the government. She writes:

"I have given up hope of having a telephone. That utility, deemed a necessity in America, is a luxury in Japan that only the rich can afford. In Tokio telephone subscribers must buy the instrument itself, paying for it all the way from one thousand to four or fire thousand yen. And after one has bought a telephone and paid for it, one must pay the usual monthly fee for service. Of course, telephone owners may sell their phones just as they sell any other article of furniture. However, very few telephone owners seem to want to sell. An applicant waits years sometimes to get an instrument in his home. It is common to see an advertisement for a telephone run for months."

Just California

'Twixt the seas and the deserts,
'Twixt the wastes and the waves,
Between the sands of buried lands
And ocean's coral caves,
It lies not East nor West,
But like a scroll unfurled,
Where the hand of God hath hung it,
Down the middle of the world.

It lies where God hath spread it,
In the gladness of His eyes,
Like a flame of jeweled tapestry
Beneath His shining skies;
With the green of woven meadows
And the hills in golden chains,
The light of leaping rivers,
And the flash of poppied plains.

Days rise that gleam in glory,
Days die with sunset's breeze,
While from Cathay that was of old
Sail countless argosies;
Morns break again in splendor
O'er the giant, new-born West,
But of all the lands God fashioned,
'Tis this land is the best.

Sun and dews that kiss it,
Balmy winds that blow,
The stars in clustered diadems
Upon its peaks of snow;
The mighty mountains o'er it,
Below, the white seas swirled—
Just California stretching down
The middle of the world.

—John Steven McGroarty.

Water Services Show Growth of Carmel

Statistics furnished by the Monterey County Water Works are an interesting and definite indication of the growth of this city. They show the total number of water services installed here from the beginning of 1918 and to the end of 1924, as follows:

1918, 446; 1922, 724; 1923, 829; 1924, 936.

The figures for Pebble Beach are 1918, 21; 1922, 55; 1923, 62; 1924, 75.

Operetta Takes Place of Drama

In place of the production of Gordon Bottomely's play, "Gruach," which had been announced as one of the attractions of double bill in Arts and Crafts Theatre on March 28, Miss Blanche Tolmie will present a French operetta entitled "Pepe Et Tita." The words are by Jules Ruelle and the music by Deslandre.

Miss Tolmie has presented this delightful operetta several times in the East and in Berkeley. The two parts will be sung by Miss Tolmie and Mrs. Roberta Leitch.

Be Sure to Vote

How many voters in Carmel and Pebble Beach are aware that on March 27 they will have an opportunity of voicing their interest in the conduct of the Monterey Union High School? On that day at the Sunset School in this city from 8 in the morning until 8 at night they may vote for a member to represent them on the Board of Trustees. This board is composed of five members, of whom two, at present, are from Monterey, one from Moss Landing, one from Pajaro and one from Carmel. The term of the latter expires this year. If you have the interest of the high school at heart, register your vote!

PLANT A TREE

Harry Greene Honored

Last Saturday Arbor Day was celebrated in Monterey when club women of the Monterey Peninsula planted a redwood in the grounds of historic Colton Hall in honor of Harry Ashland Greene. There are too few of us who plant trees. As Oliver Wendell Holmes once said, "When we plant a tree, we are doing what we can to make our planet a more wholesome and happier dwelling-place for those who come after us if not for ourselves." Carmelites, plant a tree!

To Teach Elsewhere

Friends in Carmel will be sorry to hear that Miss Ellen Van Volkenburg has regretfully declined Edward G. Kuster's offer to teach in this year's summer school at the Golden Bough. She has accepted an offer to conduct the summer school at the Cornish School at Seattle, from June 24 to August 5. Miss Van Volkenburg and Maurice Browne are now in Los Angeles arranging final details for performances of "The Mother of Gregory" which they are to give there and elsewhere in the neighborhood during the latter part of April.

The Harry Leon Wilsons recently entertained at an informal tea Mrs. Martha Newcomb of Pebble Beach, Miss Marie Carmichael of New York and Mrs. Frances T. Daniels of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Denny visited the automobile show in San Francisco last week. Paul says he saw no better values than those offered in the two lines he carries—Buicks and Chevrolets. Denny's recent sales in this city are a touring Chevrolet each to W. Winton, H. S. Cook and George Warfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon P. Narvaez, old Carmel residents, are pulling up stakes preparatory to moving to Santa Cruz, where they will make their future home.

Mrs. Clara Bachman has returned from a few days' visit in San Francisco with her sister, Mrs. Joe Wossen.

Pine Needles

Judge Thomas Taylor and Mrs. Taylor are here from Chicago for their annual spring visit.

Work on the new La Plaza Hotel is progressing rapidly, and it begins to look as if June 1, the proposed opening date, will be realized.

After an absence of three years, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Tack and family, who are large ranch owners in Arizona, are visiting here. They are registered at Pine Inn.

Dr. Marion Burke spent a few days here last week looking after her local property interests. Her home is in Palo Alto, but she keeps in very close touch with Carmel doings.

Mason Schlosser and wife were down from San Jose for the week end. They brought with them Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Schlosser of Burlingame for their first visit to Carmel.

Prof. S. S. Seward and family of Palo Alto are here until June 1. They are occupying the Peirce cottage on Professors' Row. The professor is a descendant of the Seward who was a member of Lincoln's cabinet.

An informal tea was held for the Misses Sallentine of Milwaukee, at Mrs. Roberta Leitch's studio in Carmel last Sunday afternoon. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hammond, Mrs. Fries, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury, Miss Clark, Harold Knott, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heron, Mrs. Roberta Leitch, the Misses Sallentine. The latter are leaving next week for Portland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Doulton are leaving before long for the east. They will be away several months.

Marshall Wermuth is a Daddy. Last Wednesday his wife presented him with a bouncing daughter. She's been named Helen May.

The Covington cottage at Thirteenth and Camino will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Harwood of Pasadena during the coming summer. They were here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Kuster, who have been in Honolulu for several months, are sailing on the 18th of this month for home. They will be here about the 26th.

The classic shades of McGill University in Montreal, Canada, will soon be behind Prof. and Mrs. L. E. Lloyd and family. They are returning shortly to Carmel to occupy their home at Thirteenth and San Carlos.

Henry Hagemeyer was called to the city for a few days to do some auditing for the firm he was with for seven years before coming to Carmel last summer. He was glad to get back and has no desire to establish in the city again. Carmel has "got" him, alright.

On Tuesday of last week twenty friends assembled at the home of Mrs. M. E. White, lovingly known here for many years as Mother White, to take part in the celebration of the 94th anniversary of her birth. During the afternoon the entire assemblage joined in singing "How Firm a Foundation."

It Sold at Once

Last week's offering of a "Point" corner for $2500.00 was sold immediately.

ALMOST every one has enjoyed the "Just Kidding" feature of the Pine Cone. It is the playful work of a writer of international reputation, who chooses at times to adopt pseudonyms familiar to most readers. Other writers and artists of standing have enthused over "Just Kidding", and Don Marquis, famous columnist and critic, has sent to the Pine Cone for all copies containing this feature. The author has been induced to put his impressions of Carmel into a book.
